BIBLE DICTIONARY

CESSATIONISM: is the view that the “miracle gifts” of tongues and healing have ceased—that the end of the apostolic age brought about a cessation of the miracles associated with that age. Most cessationists believe that, while God can and still does perform miracles today, the Holy Spirit no longer uses individuals to perform miraculous signs.

QUOTES

“Ultimately, no sign, miracle, wonder, or gift will persuade a person to believe if God has not opened his heart to receive the word. Many who see signs will at first appear to believe, yet will still be unconverted. “Many believed in His name, observing the signs which He was doing,” said John. “But Jesus, on His part, was not entrusting Himself to them” (JOHN 2:23-24). Why not? John says it was because Jesus knew their hearts (v25). Seekers may be entranced by the miraculous and look as though they are true believers, yet still be unchanged in their hearts.”

... Jim Elliff

“God confirmed His Word through the apostles by the miracles that they were able to do. The New Testament indicates that only the apostles and those who were closely associated with them had the power to do miracles. That is why 2COR 12:12 speaks of such miracles as ‘the signs of an apostle.’”

Jesus answered them and said, "Truly, truly, I say to you, you seek Me, not because you saw signs, but because you ate of the loaves and were filled. Do not work for the food which perishes, but for the food which endures to eternal life, which the Son of Man will give to you, for on Him the Father, God, has set His seal."
